The Bloody Big Soul Band

featuring Doris and the DinnerLadies

Picture House, New Road, Hebden Bridge

8.00pm (to 12 midnight approx)

£14 (£12)

Blasting you into the 2006 Festival, The 'Doris' band paves the way for a fortnight of celebration. Book early for their tenth consecutive Festival appearance, sure to be as exhilarating and irresistibly danceable as ever.

(Total capacity reduced to 400, but regulars will be glad to know that normal service has been resumed - everyone can, once more, join in the dancing downstairs.)

ASDA

Saturday July 1

Official Festival Opening

St. George's Square and surrounding area, Hebden Bridge
12 noon to 4.00pm

Song, dance, music and drama on the streets of Hebden Bridge this weekend.

Street events timetable available in the Festival Shop.

Rhymes and Rhythms

Paul James Boyle (guitar) and Ian Emberson (poetry)

Artsmill, Linden Mill, Linden Road, Hebden Bridge

6.00pm (to 7.00pm approx)

£5.50

The first contact between them was through painting - Paul used Ian's picture Circus as the CD cover for Little tunes from long ago. Their programme this evening shows a further development, a close blending of Paul's guitar playing with Ian's poetry.

The Hepton Singers Summer Concert

Heptonstall Parish Church

8.00pm (to 10.00pm approx)

£7 (£5); £1 for full-time students and under-16s

The local choir, The Hepton Singers, has been giving a summer concert in Heptonstall Parish Church for more than 30 years.

The programme this year is no less varied and innovative than previous years and features 20th century music, including Benjamin Britten's Sacred and Profane, Giles Swayne's setting of the Magnificat, Arvo Pärt's Magnificat Antiphons and songs by Thea Musgrave and Arnold Schoenberg.

Saturday July 1 continued

Raga Nova

Dharambir Singh (sitar); Jesse Bannister (alto saxophone); Bhupinder Singh (tabla); R N Prakash (ghatam); Giuliano Modareli (guitar)

Little Theatre, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

8.00pm (to 10.00pm approx)

£10 (£8)

Beyond Borders: Arts across the world is the main theme of this year's Festival and Raga Nova is the perfect choice to get things going. Formed five years ago as a new initiative to bring Indian classical music to audiences in more accessible forms, the ensemble is unique in its fusing of North Indian classical styles with non-Asian traditions such as samba and jazz. 'Their music is stunningly laid-back . . . an ethnic fusion which is both cool and exhilarating. Raga Nova are excellent.'

Beethoven: Sonata in F major, opus 24 (Spring)

Tucapsky: Sonata Rhapsody

Schumann: Sonata in A minor, opus 105.

Sunday July 2 continued

Don't Let the Pigeon Drive the Bus!

Big Wooden Horse Theatre Company

Little Theatre, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

4.30pm (to 5.20pm approx)

£5.50 (£3.50)

This show for young children is full of fun, laughter and excitement, featuring original music and lots of audience participation. The friendly bus driver leaves us with one simple instruction: 'Don't let the Pigeon drive the bus!' However, the Pigeon is very, very clever and whines, bribes, pleads and even sings a song to get his own way. BUT WILL YOU LET HIM DRIVE??? Adapted from the prize-winning children's book by Mo Willems. Bookstall.

Isaac Rosenberg 1890-1918:

The Half Used Life

Readings from his poems and letters by his editor and biographer Jean Liddiard and actor Sam Dastor

Artsmill, Linden Mill, Linden Road, Hebden Bridge

8.00pm (to 10.00pm approx)

£5.50

Isaac Rosenberg has long been regarded as one of the most important poets of the First World War. His poverty, education and background made him an outsider, yet it was just that experience which equipped him to cope with the unforeseen horror of war in the trenches: 'I am determined that this war, with all its powers for devastation, shall not master my poeting'. He served on the Western Front until his death on night patrol on April 1 1918.

Nigel GrayHebden Bridge Library, Hebden Vale Centre, Bridge Lanes, Hebden Bridge*4.30pm (to 5.30pm approx)*Free

A family event for children of 5 plus and all adults. Nigel Gray will read a story or two and talk about his amazing life. He is an Irish-born, UK-raised, Australian-domiciled author. He's published more than sixty books (in twenty-six countries and twenty-four languages), forty-seven of them for children, including I'll Take You to Mrs Cole and A Balloon for Grandpa. 'Everything of Nigel Gray's I have read is humane, wise and linguistically melodic' (Kurt Vonnegut). Bookstall.

In Search of Mozart (PG)Picture House, New Road, Hebden Bridge*7.45pm (to 10.00pm approx)*£4 (£3)

'The most comprehensive film about Mozart I have ever seen' (Sir Roger Norrington). In Search of Mozart is award-winning filmmaker Phil Grabsky's long-awaited feature-length documentary on Mozart's life, and shown here to celebrate the 250th anniversary of the composer's birth. Produced in association with some of the world's leading orchestras, opera houses, ensembles and soloists, the film travels 25,000 miles through Europe to provide a refreshing and in-depth look at the real life and world of Johannes Chrisostomos Wolfgang Gottlieb Mozart. The film is narrated by Juliet Stevenson, with Samuel West as the voice of Mozart, and features key performances and interviews with over seventy of the world's most significant artists. 'It will fascinate those who know nothing about the composer and intrigue those who know something already' (Opera Now).

Novocento (1900)

written by Alessandro Baricco, translated by Joseph Farrell, directed by Patrick Sandford, and performed by Mike Maran, with music by Dave Milligan

Little Theatre, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

8.00pm (to 10.00pm approx)

£10 (£8)

On the first day of a brand new century a baby boy is found under the grand piano of an ocean liner. He grows up in the belly of the boat, hidden from the eyes of the world. Until one day he strays into the first-class ballroom and captivates astonished onlookers with his dazzling piano playing . . . And so begins the story of an extraordinary man called '1900', the best piano player in the world. A sweeping romantic myth set against the background of the first half of the 20th century, the story swings to the rhythms of original music from award-winning jazz pianist Dave Milligan, and unfolds with all the passion and charm Mike Maran packs into his performances.

Tomás Jiménez and María José García

Trades Club, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

9.00pm (to 11.00pm approx)

£8 (£6)

Tomás Jiménez ('A flamenco guitarist of tremendous passion and virtuosity') and María José García (Bailarina Profesional: Ministerio de Educación y Ciencia, Madrid) present an evening of authentic Flamenco in which dance, castanets and guitar solos are used to express all of the emotions of this passionate art form. The compositions, which are influenced by all the cultures that have passed through Andalucía contributing to the creation of flamenco, can be solemn, joyous, fast and furious, gentle and lyrical - indeed the whole gamut of emotions that are found in the greatest flamenco.

Rebel Girls: Their Fight for the Vote

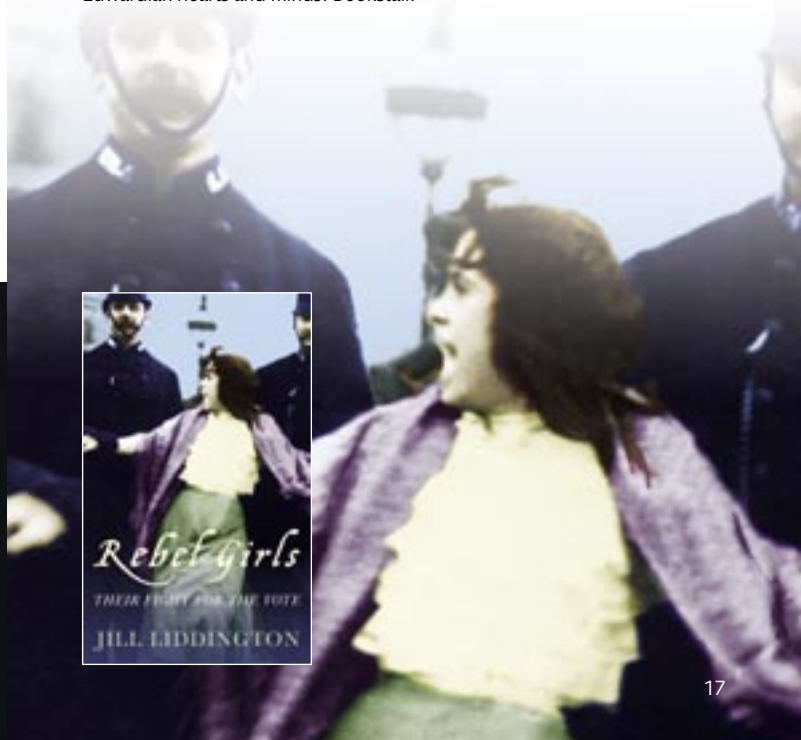

a talk by Jill Liddington

Artsmill, Linden Mill, Linden Road, Hebden Bridge

7.00pm (to 8.00pm approx)

£5.50

Jill Liddington talks about her new book in which she tracks the story of these forgotten suffragettes across the North of England, including Lavena Saltonstall of Hebden Bridge, and offers an utterly original history of suffrage. They took their message out to the remotest Yorkshire dales to win Edwardian hearts and minds. Bookstall.

Friday July 7 continued

Images, Words and Music

St Michael's Church Hall, Mytholmroyd
7.30pm (to 9.30pm approx)

£6 (£4)

In spring this year an International Audio-Visual Festival took place in the National Museum of Photography, Film and Television in Bradford. Tonight the top awards from this event will be presented by Peter Coles, together with one or two local programmes of images, words and music.

The Demon Barbers

Trades Club, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge
9.00pm (to 12 midnight approx)

£9 (£7)

Over the last three years The Demon Barbers have gained major recognition for their original and imaginative approach to traditional music and song. With Damien Barber (vocals/guitar/concertina), Bryony Griffith (fiddle/vocals) and Will Hampson (melodeon/harmonica) retaining a solid traditional English base, the band's unique sound is compounded by the driving rhythm section of Ben Griffith and Lee Sykes. 'With The Demon Barbers' driven punchy tunes & songs, drum'n'bass grooves, the odd touch of ska and an ever present feel that this lot know how to party, the result is one of the most exciting acts around' (fRoots '05).

Jeremy Hardy

Picture House, New Road, Hebden Bridge

8.00pm (to 10.00pm approx)

£14 (£12)

Jeremy is perhaps best remembered as a much younger man, but there is nothing he can do about that now. Still alive and able to speak unaided for lengthy periods, this show will be not so much a one-man show as an under-staffed cavalcade. 'One of the sharpest comedians on the circuit' (The Guardian). 'Hilarious, detailed, gently self-deprecating act from a stand-up comic in complete control' (The Independent). 'One minute lewd, the next blimpish, the next acerbic, he is always one step wide of insult and one ahead of expectation' (The Financial Times).

Bleeding Hearts

Trades Club, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

9.00pm (to 12 midnight approx)

£8 (£6)

'Dance to it, listen to it, can't ignore it!' A traditional guitar band with a bucketful of anger, emotion, great big tunes and a lot to say. They combine big guitars with strong vocals, plus melodic and uplifting energetic fiddle playing. Great fun! Over the past two years Bleeding Hearts have wowed Glastonbury, toured Europe and North America and supported acts such as The Darkness, The Damned, The Levellers and The Oysterband. 'Punk energised power pop with superb melodies' (Rock'n'Reel). 'Songs from an alternative fiddle-punky village where the sun always shines' (Brum Beat).

Gaia Holmes and Milner Place

Artsmill, Linden Mill, Linden Road, Hebden Bridge
8.00pm (to 9.30pm approx)

£5.50

Luddenden-born Gaia Holmes is a poet whose work digs beneath the surface of mundane, urban life to reveal an extraordinary seam of exoticism. This evening's reading launches her debut collection, Dr James Graham's Celestial Bed (Comma Press). Milner Place describes himself as 'a knockabout who still searches for the magic in poetry'. He has published eight poetry collections, including In a Rare Time of Rain (Chatto & Windus). As with Gaia, his poetry is itself an adventure. Bookstall.

Tuesday July 11 continuedHeavy Water: a film for Chernobyl

filmed & directed by Phil Grabsky and David Bickerstaff

Little Theatre, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

8.00pm (to 10.00pm approx)

£7 (£5)

Mario Petrucci's award-winning book-length poem for Chernobyl, Heavy Water, forms the narrative backbone of the film, which tells the story of the explosion and its catastrophic aftermath. Over a year in the making and filmed in the Ukraine, the result is an intensely moving film which, rather than relating the technical details of the world's biggest ever industrial accident, emphasises the effect of the disaster on the people of Chernobyl. The poetry is read by Juliet Stevenson, David Trelfall and Samuel West. 'Heartfelt, ambitious and alive' (Jackie Kay, The Daily Telegraph). The film will be introduced by the director, Phil Grabsky, and the poet Mario Petrucci, and there will be a Q&A session after the showing. An unmissable event in this 20th anniversary year of the catastrophe. Bookstall.

Samuel Beckett: The Man and his Work
an illustrated lecture by John Calder and The Godot Company

Little Theatre, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

8.00pm (to 10.00pm approx)

£10 (£8)

Beckett was a realist who felt keenly the evils and sufferings of the world, and his moral message goes deeper and rings truer than most religions. John Calder points out why he is increasingly compared to Shakespeare, and what he has to say to each of us about our lives and destinies. The passages from the novels, poems and plays chosen for this evening show how almost everything in the writings comes directly from the life experience and thinking of this remarkable man. They are tender, funny, frightening, angry and moving, always thought-provoking, vivid and with a point. This is a welcome return visit by John Calder (who was for many years Samuel Beckett's publisher and friend) and his Godot Company in this the centenary year of Samuel Beckett's birth. Bookstall.

Bestiary

written by Jim Burke; performed by Nick Nuttgens

Artsmill, Linden Mill, Linden Road, Hebden Bridge

8.30pm (to 9.30pm approx)

£8 (£6)

Bestiary, Hebden Bridge-based Jim Burke's one-person play, was first broadcast on Radio 4 in 2003, then adapted for the stage last year. It consists of three interlinked monologues, each delivered by a famous animal in history. There's the Biblical whale which swallowed Jonah; the 'Hartlepool monkey' which was hanged as a French spy during the Napoleonic Wars; and the Sputnik dog, Laika, which was fatally launched into space in 1957. An entertaining and accessible look at human behaviour through the prism of the experiences of these three animals.

Little Theatre, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

6.00pm (to 7.30pm approx)

Workshop only £7 (£5)

Workshop and performance combined ticket £10 (£8)

In this workshop, Baba will share the basic techniques rap artists use to express themselves and tell stories. Drawing from examples of well-known rap songs, he will show the difference between rap versification and traditional poetry, and break the process of composition down into simple steps. Once these skills have been communicated in simple terms, Baba will lead the workshop in co-creating a tailor-made rap verse. Participants will leave the workshop with a general understanding of all the lyrical techniques of rap.

The Rap Canterbury Tales

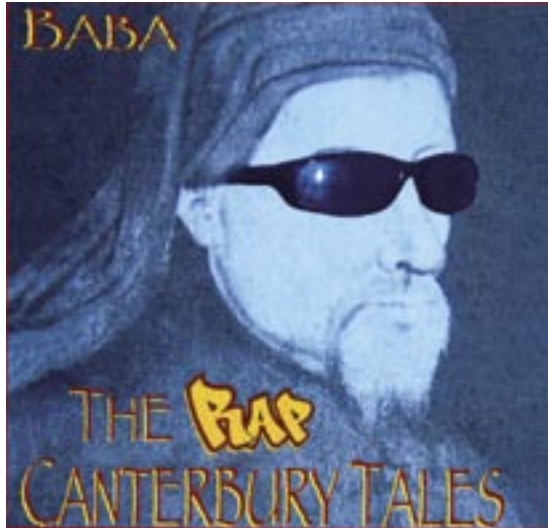

performed by Baba

Little Theatre, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

8.15pm (to 9.15pm approx)

£7 (£5); combined ticket £10 (£8)

This rap re-creation of Chaucer's 14th century poem first appeared at the Edinburgh Festival 2004. In it Baba creates a live storytelling event using tongue-twisting rhymes and hip-hop rhythms, while at the same time capturing the playful spirit of Chaucer's poetry - and the acclaim of critics and audiences alike. Baba began his rap career at nineteen, freestyling and writing songs in his hometown of Vancouver, Canada. In the past seven years he has performed at venues around the world, and has released four albums.

Exhibitions

Paintings in Hospitals

The Festival Shop, New Oxford House, Albert Street, Hebden Bridge

Saturday June 17 to Sunday July 16

Monday to Saturday 10.30am to 5.00pm; Sunday 12 noon to 5.00pm

Paintings in Hospitals (PiH) has put together a collection of original signed artists' prints by Norman Ackroyd RA, Craigie Aitchison RA, Peter Blake RA, Eileen Cooper RA, John Hoyland RA, Albert Irvin RA, Chris Orr RA, Tom Phillips RA and Patrick Procktor RA. The limited edition prints are for sale individually. Prices range from £200 to £580.

PiH is a registered charity dedicated to improving the healthcare environment experienced by patients, staff and visitors by lending original works of art to NHS hospitals, hospices and other healthcare facilities across England, Wales and Ireland. www.paintingsinhospitals.org.uk

Angel Albert Irvin RA

Glass by Althea Braithwaite

The Festival Shop, New Oxford House, Albert Street, Hebden Bridge

Saturday June 17 to Sunday July 16

Monday to Saturday 10.30pm to 5.00pm; Sunday 12 noon to 5.00pm

Althea says that glass is now her favourite medium: "I love the translucency and the rainbow of colours. I cut and arrange the glass to create a pattern of colours and then fuse it in an electric kiln. I'm continually experimenting with new designs, and opening the kiln in the morning is often a great thrill. I welcome commissions - and the challenge they bring." Her glass is exhibited throughout East Anglia; this will be her first exhibition in Yorkshire.

Prices range from £25 to £225

Misunderestimating the President Through Cartoons

President George W Bush in caricature

Artsmill, Linden Mill, Linden Road, Hebden Bridge

Wednesday June 28 to Sunday July 30

11.00 am to 5.00pm (closed Monday and Tuesday)

Love him or hate him, President George W Bush is God's gift to today's political cartoonists, his many gaffes, spoonerisms and bloopers making easy pickings. The exhibition will include original work by leading political cartoonists from both the UK and the US. These original cartoons can be purchased.

In association with the Political Cartoon Gallery

Contentious Cartoons

Thursday June 29 at 8.00pm £5.50

This illustrated talk by Dr Tim Benson (founder of the Political Cartoon Society) will explore the repercussions cartoonists can face from drawing what appear, at the time, to be contentious cartoons.

Chernobyl

a photographic exhibition by Steve Morgan

Little Theatre, Holme Street, Hebden Bridge

Open whenever Festival events are taking place

On April 25/26 1986 the world's worst nuclear power accident occurred at Chernobyl in the former USSR (now Ukraine). The next day mass evacuations of its people began. In total 135,000 people were evacuated from the area, including 50,000 from the nearby city of Pripyat. In order to reduce baggage, the residents were told that the evacuation would be temporary, lasting approximately three days. As a result, Pripyat is still complete with personal belongings that, due to radiation, can never be moved. The images in this exhibition were taken in October 2005 during a brief visit to the stricken area around Chernobyl.
